Since 1990, the Access Fund has been the country's only organization dedicated solely to keep climbing areas open and conserving the climbing environment. We have grown to over 15,000 members and affiliates, and gained support of most of the climbing industry through our corporate partnership program. We continue to add and work with community partners and associated local climber organizations to advocate on behalf of the one million active climbers in the USA. We have spent millions of dollars on land acquisitions, local conservation projects, and support for grassroots activism. We have dedicated significant funding to climber education and representation in the public policy arena.

In 2004 the Access Fund awarded Climbing Preservation Grants; monies that helped establish and support Local Climber Organizations, to acquire land, build or repair trail systems, provide necessary signage, produce brochures and assist many other grassroots initiatives in Arizona, California, Colorado, Georgia, Idaho, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Utah, Vermont, Washington and other areas across the USA.

Our establishment of the Friends of Queen Creek (AZ), continued coalition building, and extensive lobbying efforts have so far been successful in keeping access to the Oak Flat area open. These 760 acres of prime climbing territory are threatened by development of a new copper mine and if the mining were to go forward as currently proposed would be the single largest loss of climbing environment in history. Although Oak Flat is public land the mining company is trying to enact legislation in US Congress that would exchange the land for mining company holdings. This privatization of the land would allow them to move forward with mining and close the public out of the area. Climbers from around the country have stepped forward to help our efforts, and the Access Fund will continue to organize and pursue this issue until a reasonable solution is found.

We held two regional activists summits, in Alabama and Oregon, that brought together climber activists in a forum filled with education, advice and a sharing of ideas, successes and challenges faced on issues related to access and the climbing environment.

Our national policy efforts continue on a regular basis in Washington D.C. in support of legislation and regulatory initiatives that benefit climbing in the United States. We make comments to Climbing Management Plans (CMP) around the country as they come up either for the first time or as renewal. These CMP’s give direction to managers of public lands and are crucial to how climbing is regulated.

The Access Fund collaborated with local climbing organizations such as the East Tennessee Climbers Coalition, Southeast Climbers Coalition, Kootenai Klimgers Idaho, and Washington Climbers Coalition to preserve or restore access in: Las Vegas Nevada, Bend Oregon, Ely’s Peak Minnesota, McConnell’s Mill Pennsylvania, Custer State Park South Dakota, Telluride and front range areas of Colorado, Gibraltar Rock Wisconsin, Cooper Rock West Virginia as well as many other areas throughout the US. We apologize for not being able to list them all.

2004 was a successful and productive year for The Access Fund thanks to strong support from climbers throughout the country. Challenges remain, but we continue to advocate on behalf of our members, partners and the close to one million active climbers in the USA. We look forward to increasing and improving our grassroots support of climbers around the country working to keep their climbing areas open and conserving the climbing environment for future generations. Together with a focused mission, long term commitment to self-regulation and local activism we are well prepared to continue to address the issues in the years ahead.

2004 Activity Report

Public Policy

- Advocacy work with the US Forest Service in Washington State concerning climbing practices and fixed anchor policies in the Alpine Lakes Wilderness area; organizational work to establish the Washington Climbers Coalition (WCC) local climbing organization.
- Advocacy work concerning the Queen Creek/Oak Flats area of Arizona that is threatened by a massive copper mine proposal; assistance forming the Friends of Queen Creek (FoQC). Additional work with AF lobbyist in Washington, DC concerning efforts on Capitol Hill advocating to preserve climbing access to the Queen Creek area.
- Work with the Bureau of Land Management and regional National Park Service to implement a memorandum of understanding (MOU) formalizing the relationship between them and the Access Fund/ climbing community concerning land management planning and access issues.
- Ongoing monitoring of a proposed climbing closure at Cave Rock, NV; decision pending in a lawsuit filed in federal district court opposing the USFS decision to implement the climbing ban.
- Work with the BLM, Nature Conservancy, Rocky Mountain Field Institute, and members of the outdoor industry regarding a recreation management plan for Indian Creek, UT. Advocacy work related to a draft management plan for Indian Creek, UT; organizing support for a climber-friendly management alternative with the climbing community and outdoor industry; assistance forming a Friends of Indian Creek group; and assistance with the Patagonia Ambassador’s program in writing a stewardship grant for the region.
- Continued work with the Bureau of Land Management, U.S. Forest Service, and National Park Service towards the establishment of a favorable policy/regulation regarding fixed anchors in wilderness.
- Facilitating a workgroup to revise and implement phase II of a climbing management plan at Castle Rocks State Park in Idaho. Lobbying in Washington, DC for a revision to the climbing management plan at City of Rocks National Reserve, ID to reopen Twin Sisters. Obtained a Congressional support letter signed by the entire ID delegation in support of multiple use management practices.
- Advocacy work in Las Vegas, NV meeting with the BLM to develop climbing management policies and reorganizing the Las Vegas Climbers Liaison Council local climbing organization.
- Work with congressional offices in Washington, DC to get members of Congress to attend Access Fund Adopt-A-Crag trail days in North Carolina, Colorado, Tennessee, Massachusetts, and New Mexico.

Access & Acquisitions Program

- Issued an Action Alert on a proposed fixed anchor ban in designated wilderness areas in the San Bernardino National Forest. The ban would include the Tahquitz and Suicide, CA climbing areas; communication with Forest planners to discuss the ban and suggest possible alternatives.
- Produced a Bouldering Whitepaper to provided guidance on bouldering management issues; distributed copies to RCs, LCOs and land managers.
- Organized a Southeast Regional Workshop, held at Desoto State Park, AL. Climbing activists throughout the SE attended the workshop which focused on private land issues, land acquisition opportunities, and strategies for preserving access.
- Organized a Western Regional Workshop, held in Bend, OR. Climbing activists throughout the northwest attended the workshop.
- Provided support to the Madrone Wall Preservation Committee, OR in their effort to reopen Madrone Wall, an outstanding climbing resource near Portland, OR.
- Finalized a plan to preserve ice climbing opportunities in Boulder Canyon, CO.

Grassroots Program

- Launched the Access Fund Affiliate Program, a coalition of Climbing Organizations, Associations, Clubs, and Access Committees working in unison with the Access Fund to keep climbing areas open and to conserve the climbing environment.
- Wisconsin: Site visit in August. Met with a Devil’s Lake manager; toured the State Park and discuss issues. Met with individual climbers. Visited Gibraltar Rock, which is currently closed to rock climbing. Convened a climbers meeting to hear local concerns, identify issues, etc. regarding climbing and bouldering management. Continued correspondence re strategic organization and next steps.
- New Jersey: Through the work of NJAccess president John Anderson the Division of Parks & Forestry adopted a policy that would lift the ban on rock climbing in New Jersey State Parks subject to the climber’s signing of a waiver of liability. The Access Fund provided support and resources throughout the process, including a letter to the New Jersey Governor’s office.

- Minnewaska State Park, New York: Provided support and resources to the Gunks Climbers Coalition to address a raptor closure at Minnewaska State Park for ravens.
- Provided guidance to climbers from:
  - Wisconsin regarding reviving Wisconsin Outdoor Access, including organizational strategies and strategies for reopening Gibraltar Rock near Lodi, WI.
  - Palisades State Park, South Dakota regarding organizational issues and land manager relations.
  - Grand Ledges Climbers Coalition, Michigan providing support and resources to form a local climbing organization and build relationships with the governing board of Grand Ledges.
  - Kootenai Klimbers and writing letter of support regarding climbing management documents and provided comments to a draft MOU between the Kootenai Klimbers and Post Falls City about climbing at O’emiln Park around Coeur d’Alene, Idaho.
  - Minnesota Climbers Association including providing a support letter and climbing management documents to reopen presently closed climbing areas.
  - Ohio Climbers Association regarding organizational issues and provided a support letter and climbing management documents to the land manager at Fairborn City Park, which contributed, in part to the reopening of the park to climbing.
  - Adirondacks regarding potential formation of an LCO and communications with land managers.
  - San Diego, CA to resolve organizational concerns and develop strategies to more effectively address access issues at diverse climbing areas.
  - Boise, Idaho regarding developing bouldering areas in an environmentally responsible way.
  - West Virginia to form the Coopers Rock Regional Climbers’ Coalition.
  - Northern California to form the Bigfoot Country Climbers’ Association.
  - South Platte, Colorado regarding the opening of a new state park that will include climbing in Tennessee to form the East Tennessee Climbers Coalition.
  - Southeastern Climbers Coalition to market themselves and strategically plan for the growth of their organization.

The Boulder Project

- Development of the Boulder Project; The Boulder Project is the Access Fund’s flagship educational program. The goal of the Boulder Project is to support and empower climbers in building a more access secure and environmentally sustainable bouldering future. It has four fundamental objectives for its work: to promote awareness and support for more sustainable patterns of development and use of our bouldering resources; to encourage climber participation in decision-making; to build bridges of understanding and cooperation between climbers and land owners/managers, to legitimize and energize the bouldering network.
- Launched The Boulder Project at the 2004 Phoenix Bouldering Blast (PBB) April 23 – 25
- Creation of a Boulder Project Toolkit, which includes a bouldering specific “Leave No Trace” guideline, guidelines for boulder field establishment, how to make the transition to outdoor climbing, etc.

Adopt-A-Crag

- Coordinated the 5th Annual Adopt-a-Crag. We sponsored 103 events, surpassing our internal goal of 85 Adopt-a-Crags events - all told, those events involved more 3,300 volunteers who contributed almost 18,700 volunteer hours in 32 states and British Columbia.
- Publicity this year has been electronic and in print media. We ran print ads in Rock & Ice, Climbing, and Backpacker magazines. REI ran a story in their Gearmail News, and SNEWS publicized the event as well. We further publicized each event by sending Adopt-a-Crag posters to each organizer and provided high-res sponsor logos on our website.
- We encouraged each organizer to contact their local press by including an Adopt-a-Crag Press Release template and suggestions on how to involve the press with their registration confirmation.
- Organizing for targeted members of Congress to attend Adopt-a-Crags in their district. We designated members of Congress who are either climbers or recreationists and worked with Regional Coordinators and Affiliates to arrange Congressional visits at the targeted Adopt-a-Crag: Mark Udall (D) Colorado (2nd District) attended the local Boulder, Colorado event.
